

Senthilnathan, the college student who is disenchanted with his life and his studies, leaves home to take up a job in Pondicherry. There he meets Viji, the daughter of a retired army officer. They are soon deeply in love with each other. But their happiness is short-lived as Senthilnathan gets involved in trade union activities that lead to violence that takes the lives of many people including his dear sister Geetha. He is forced to leave Pondicherry but Viji's father refuses them permission to marry since he wants her to marry another army officer's son who has settled abroad for doing business for protecting her inheritance rights. Senthilnathan leaves the city with the only regret of having met Viji in an environment where he was in danger of losing his life. He goes back to Coimbatore and works with his father in the family business. His girlfriend Viji lives in Chennai. Years pass by and her father does not bring up her marriage to another man. She is twenty-four years old when she comes into contact with Senthilnathan, who is now thirty four, on campus during a protest rally opposing Dow Chemicals' implementation plan for air pollution control. Viji (who knows about her past) is scared of Senthilnathan since he was a hero in her younger days, and she is reluctant to marry him. But she agrees for the sake of the child she is expecting from him. The mother of Senthilnathan's friend Manian lives in a slum with her daughter. One day the house containing fragile items collapses and Manian loses his life. He had been missing for a couple of weeks since the accident at the construction site where he had been working as a labourer. Senthilnathan finds out that this friend Manian of his, who had died accidentally, was actually an engineer of the construction company. He finds out that Manian's boss wanted to build a huge apartment complex with substandard materials. Viji gives birth to a child after some time. Senthilnathan goes to Chennai for six months to work with Viji's father in his business so as not to be separated from Viji and his son Raman whom she named after her father (Raman is the only person who knows about these developments). He gets to know more about the activities of the service sector and the nexus between politicians and businessmen. Manian's mother and his mother (Senthilnathan's friend) are fighting for their rights in court. Manian's mother starts working to support her family. From her job, she learns that Senthilnathan is not dead but alive with his wife Viji in Coimbatore. She wants to meet him but she is scared of travelling alone. She knows that Manian had been living with Senthilnathan when he was alive, so, taking advantage of this occasion, she sends a man to go there to tell him that his mother-in-law is ill and wants him back at home.
